PICNIC, PARADE

before the time set for the starting of the monster parade the streets were thronged with multitudes of people un-til, they were almost impassable. The greatest throng to witness the procession was stationed at city hall square, which offered a splendid opportunity for view-ing the procession. It was near 11 o'clock when the long line of marchers began to move east in Twenty-fifth street from the union depot, and as the first division the union depot, and as the first division passed along the thoroughfare the other sections swung into line in the order as previously arranged, until there was a line more than a mile in length.

Over 2,000 in Line.

The number participating in the parade is estimated at from 2.000 to 3.000. wenty-fifth street the line of march led it Washington avenue to Seventeenth street, to Jefferson avenue to Sixteenth street and thence to Glenwood park, where the exercises of the day were held. The procession was headed by Chief of Police T. E. Browning, Sheriff G. A Sebring and Officer of the Day W. J. Felker, followed by a platoon of police and deputy sheriffs. Then followed the Ogden city fire department and a carriage containing Governor J. C. Cutier, Judge J. A. Howell, Rev. Father P. M. Cushnahan, George M. Hanson and Rudolph Kuchler. Next in line were carriages containing the city and county offi-cials, Nichols' concert band, Machinists' union, bricklayers, boilermakers, electrical workers with float. blacksmiths and helpers tinsmiths. Logan band, carpen-ters and joiners with float, hod carriers, teamsters with float, bartenders with float, cigarmakers, barbers, tailors, painters and decorators with float, brewery workers with float, broom workers with float, carriage containing mayor of Brigham City, followed by a Brigham delegation carrying a large banner bearing the inscription, "Peach Day, Sept. 19."
The rear end of the procession was made up of a large list of industrial floats.
The only unpleasant feature of the whole parade was the fact that the machinists and boilermakers dropped out at the Og-den river bridge before the end of the line of march. Several floats also failed to retain their places in the line until the

At the conclusion of the parade Gov-ernor Cutler was taken to the Weber club, where luncheon was served. In the governor's party were Mayor E. M. Conroy. Judge J. A. Howell, Rev. P. M. Cushnahan, W. M. Piggott, George M. Hanson, James Falverson, the mayor and Sports of the Day.

At the close of the speaking the long list of athletic events was taken up. The baseball game, as usual, drew a large crowd. The Lewis Jewelers team, formerly the Oregon Short Line team, went down to defeat at the hands of the visiting team from Brigham City to the tune of 16 to 17.

Perhaps the most interesting event of the day was the tug-of-war between the electricians and the teamsters. The for-mer succeeded in winning out by possess-ing better staying qualities than their op-

DREW GUN ON ENGINEER. Guard on One of Farley's Trains

Made Vicious Threats.

Made Vicious Threats.

The fact leaked out here yesterday that Engineer Charles Compton of the Southern Pacific, who was hauling the first train of Farley's strike breakers west from here last Friday evening, was a victim of an assault at the hands of one of the guards on the train. It appears that some tramps had boarded the train at Ogden and the guard, whose name is not known, ordered Compton to bring the train to a step at Lakeside in order that they might put the hoboes off. Engineer Compton said that he had orders to meet another train at a siding near there and refused to make the stop. The guard thereupon whipped out an ugly looking. 44-caliber Colt's revolver and, with an oath, told the engineer that he would see whether or not there would be a stop when he ordered it. Some other party on the engine at the time attracted the guard's attention for a short time, and the train was run ahead on to the siding without further trouble. Telegrams were sent ahead and officers arrested the guard on arrival at Montello, but when taken before the justice of the peace, at that plac Justice Hagan refused to hear the case, as the alleegd assault was committed in Utah, outside of his jurisdiction.

Tony Jacobson is reported to have been the heaviest individual loser on Nelson. Whether it was sentiment growing out of the fact that Mr. Jacobson and Nelson both have Scandinavian blood flowing through their veins, or whether it was because of a firm conviction that Nelson would win the fight, matters not; the fact is that Mr. Jacobson separated himself from $3,000 coin of the realm, most of which he placed in small bets. He wired and tried to have $5,000 bet at the ringside, but was unable to get the monsy up. He but was unable to get the money up. He offered $1,000 more locally, but was unable

R. W. Eloan won $800 at even money on the result of the fight, but his winnings were cut down considerably because he made some bets on the number of rounds the fight would last. In the crowd in front of The Herald office divers and sundry small bets were made while the fight was going on. At one time Frank L. Hines, superintendent of the city water department, held $450 stakes in small bets. Nelson is a favorite in Salt Lake, and whereas the betting at the ringside showed Gans to be the favorite, most of the local betting was at even money. In the local pool room pools sold part of the time at even money, part of the time at 5 to 3 and part of the time at 20 to 18.

De Wit' B. Lowe, broker, placed considerable money on Nelson yesterday afternoon for some of his clients. It was rumored that this was "hedging" money belonging to persons who had bet heavily on Gans and feared that they would lose.

AMUSEMENTS

Little fault can be found with the bill at the Orpheum last week, and the crowd which filled the house last night to overflowing was certainly not disposed to find any. Indeed, a goodly amount of applause greeted every number, although there were decided preferences.

Leading the whole easily was the little playlet "No More Trouble," adapted from the French by Wilfred Clarke and played by him and his company with about as much vim and go as four people can get into any play ever put on any board. Miss 'Theo Carew, who heads the support, does as clever a piece of acting as the Frozen Lady as one could ask, and Archie Gillies and Miss de Mott are fully up to the mark. Those who saw them in the play of last week need no telling as to the excellence of their work, but it may be said that the new play is a little harder and requires perhaps even better work on their next and is stunts, her clear voice and her banjo is good, but her youth and chic manner Drug Dept. His jokes is false. She has not ridden behind are somewhat new and the action, despite the fact that the other seven on the stage are dummies, is spirited.

Russell and Held led the bill in a "Terpsichorean Oddity" and the two of them. them were not worth much as an index and their coming back after the first appearance was due, no doubt, to the terms of their contract.

The musical Forrests did some clever work with what appeared to be enlarged xylophones, the numbers with orchestral accompaniment being especially pleasing.

But the last number outclassed all the rest. For rough buffoonery and horse play it was about the limit. The three Hickman brothers may come again to the Orpheum but they'll never be advertised as despited tised as drawing cards. The less said about their supposed stunt the better, but about their supposed stunt the better, but some people were heard to wonder what the meaning of the title, "Who Stopped the Ferry Boat?" was. The kinodrome was good, the "Toy Actors" especially. The house was packed, and the prospects are that it will be all week. The two orchestral numbers, "From Morn Till Night" by Suppe, and "It Happened in Nordland," by Victor Herbert were both exceptionally well done.

"Looking for a Wife," the musical comedy which is on the boards at the Grand theatre this week, is moving merrily along, and pleasing the patrons of that playhouse nightly. The play is a cleverly written farce comedy, with some funny comedy situations, and a score of pleasing musical numbers, given by a number of pretty girls; the comedians of the company. Wheeler and Russell, in their respective lines are well received.

(Special to The Herald.) Ogden, Sept. 3.—Before a crowd of 1.000 people Mike Yokel, the local champion wrestler, and Pat Cannon, the champion of Omaha, were pitted together in a wrestling match at Glenwood park tonight. Early in the game Cannon secured a body hold, which Yokel was unable to break. Cannon could not throw Yokel with the hold, which Yokel was unable to break. Cannon could not throw Yokel with the hold, but he succeeded in preventing Yokel from throwing him. The match lasted for two hours and fifty minutes, and at the end of that time the match was declared a draw by mutual consent.
